

A Woman's $2 SHOE.

Don't be afraid of it. It's a splendid shoe for the price.

We know that Two Dollars is a common place price for a good shoe, and we know how disgusted you are with the store that sells you a poor shoe.

TRY A PAIR, MADAME

and if you do not say that this shoe is the best wearing—best looking and the most stylish Two Dollar Shoe you ever had on your feet—your money goes back to you.

A fair offer and our Two Dollar shoes justify us in making it. We take pleasure in showing the new spring styles.

CANTON SCHOOLS

In Good Condition and No Fear of Fire Horror Felt by Authorities.

Canton school teachers and authorities, stirred by the Collinwood school fire horror, yesterday devoted part of their time to an inspection of the safety appliances of the city's school buildings, the construction of the buildings themselves, their care so far as the locking of doors and fires are concerned and the method of fire drill that is practiced. When all was done it was the common opinion that Canton parents should fear no such catastrophe in any of the school buildings of this city.

It was decided, however, that in order that the children of the various schools might accustom themselves to escaping from the buildings by means of the fire escapes that a drill in this should be practiced and it is probable that this feature will shortly be incorporated into the regular fire drill.

The buildings themselves are built with wide stairways and corridors and the doors, which are all kept unlocked during the hours when the buildings are in use, were found to open outward, thus by their very construction precluding any such horror as that witnessed at the rear doors of the Cleveland suburb school.

The fire drills which are practiced will be improved on as much as possible and the fact that all doors must be maintained while the drill is being practiced will be made plain to every pupil and insisted upon.

The Cleveland accident formed the burden of conversation among teachers and older pupils yesterday and it is believed that it will have the effect of impressing more deeply than words the lesson that silence and order must be maintained during fire drills.

BOSSSES RULED THE DAY

"Boss ridden was no name for it," said a prominent Republican who attended the state Republican convention in speaking of the sessions and work of that body. "Boss" Cox was there at the head of his Hamilton county braves and was again crowned by the gathered representatives of Republicanism in Ohio as the dominating force in the party in this state. Brown, boss of Lucas county, was also recognized as a factor in the game, and Congressman Burton, apostle of reform, appeared in the role of bossing the Cuyahoga county delegation.

"There is no question but that bossism was rampant and there is just as little doubt that a slate was fixed although the bosses denied this, and announced with a great flourish that the delegates were free and untrammelled and had been left free to vote as their judgments and consciences dictated."

The same convention visitor who made the above statements deplored the tactical mistake made by the convention in nominating Green for treasurer. He said that it showed such a complete indifference to the interests and wishes of the people that he feared the consequences. "The Democrats," he said, "may not realize just the opportunity they have in Ohio this fall but I assure you that it is appreciated by many thinking Republicans."

ENQUIRER EULOGIZES MAYOR AL. CARLILE

Over in the 18th district, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, the Democrats the urging Mayor Al Carlile of Salem to take the field for congress against James Kennedy of Youngstown. While his honor is not much on looks and possesses no fancy didos as an orator, yet he can cover more ground than a jack rabbit running away from a charge of birdshot in its rear elevation. If he will take the nomination and get out the gigantic handbag that he carried from ocean to ocean when he used to inspect furniture for the treasury department, he certainly will garner in a wad of votes. While the irreverent Taft organs in Youngstown poke fun at his honor, yet he has a good fighting chance if the Foraker bunch can deliver anything like their claims.

NEW LAW PLEAS

Many Who Are Interested in Ohio Building and Loan Associations.

Those interested in building and loan associations in Canton and elsewhere, are much pleased with the explanation given in Finance, the organ of state bankers, concerning the new building and loan law. The attitude of Finance is pointed out as demonstrating beyond a doubt that the difference between banks and loans associations are purely local. Finance says in part:

"The savings and loan companies of Ohio, who are supporting the bill, state distinctly that no changes are contemplated that depart from the original savings and loan idea. They want no banking power; no authority to accept money subject to check; no law to discount paper."

"So far as the principal changes proposed in the bill are concerned they are five in number. The first relates to dropping the word 'building' in the corporate name. For 18 years past the associations have not been permitted by law to own land or do building; consequently, the word is a misnomer. The second change relates to the manner of paying withdrawals which at the present time is cumbersome and has a number of disadvantages. The third change is in relation to the buying of a mortgage. Formerly the associations were permitted to purchase mortgages, but lately this has been changed. The proposed amendment will straighten out this point. The fourth change relates to the undivided profit account. As the law stands, no distribution can be made of any earnings unless said earnings (interest) are actually paid in cash. The fifth and last principal change relates to the manner of examination and inspection of the associations. It is considered that the department has gone outside of the statute in making examinations without warrant in law about each 18 months. The change in the present bill makes the examination of every company compulsory by the state at least once in every two years."
